ALLIED HEALTH

Allied Health Support

Developmental Educators, Social Workers, Therapy Assistants and Youth Workers.
Focused on measurable progress.

Developmental Educators

registered with the peak body, Developmental Educators Australia Inc. (DEAI)

Social Workers

part of our Allied Health team

Youth Workers

and Therapy Assistants for consistent, practical support

Support that builds everyday skills

Our specialised Allied Health team works closely with participants, families, schools and support networks to create tailored strategies that support emotional regulation, executive functioning, social confidence, communication, daily living skills and long term progression.

Supports can be delivered at home, at school, in the community or from one of our hubs, in environments where participants feel most comfortable and supported.

Every member of our team has

- All relevant clearances
- Mental health first aid
- Trauma awareness training
- Ongoing best practice supervision
- First aid
- Autism awareness training
- Person centred practice training
- Ongoing mentoring from our senior Allied Health practitioners

Therapy Assistants offer a practical and cost effective option for participants wanting to maximise their NDIS funding while still receiving consistent therapeutic support and skill development.

How to get started

1. We talk with you, and your support team if you have one, about your goals, interests and the support you need.
2. We ask some questions to help us get to know you better.
3. We create a tailored, individualised Support Plan just for you.
4. We complete assessments and intake documentation so we understand any additional support needs.
